Dear LaGuardia faculty and staff—

When these updates began in May 2021, I committed to sending them weekly to keep our community informed as circumstances evolved, protocols changed, and new guidance was received, to ensure we were ready to “return to campus.” Now, as the spring 2022 semester gets underway, and we’ve welcomed thousands through our doors, I am happy to say LaGuardia has returned.

With that in mind—this will be the last of the weekly Return to Campus Update emails. However, I assure you that communications from me and the vice presidents will continue on an as needed basis. For the final weekly edition, I leave you with some important contacts and links that may be helpful to keep handy.
